Why Hemp is good for your skin

Hempseed Oil is 80% essential fatty acids, mostly omegas 3, 6 and 9, which make it the optimal nutrition and moisture protection for the layers of the skin, which is our largest organ. Due to its high content of omega 6 and omega 3 fatty acids, hemp oil has a composition similar to skin lipids, which makes it an excellent natural emollient and moisturizer. It is especially useful for dry, tired or dehydrated skin, hair and nails. It increases the skin elasticity and water retention capacity in tissues. It is a poly unsaturated fat, with long molecule chains that enable it to penetrate the epidermis, dermis, and subcutaneous layers of the skin and deliver medicine locally.
